Chamberlain Hrdlicka Becomes First Houston Firm to Adopt CoCounsel Legal, Advancing Strategic Use of AI in Legal Practice

December 18, 2025

Chamberlain Hrdlicka is pleased to announce that it was one of the earliest law firms in the nation and the very first in Houston to commit to adopting Thomson Reuters CoCounsel Legal, even before the solutions market launch. The early commitment this past summer reflects the firm's dedication to leveraging advanced AI tools to enhance client service, increase operational efficiency and strengthen its competitive edge.

Since the launch and implementation this past August, Chamberlain Hrdlicka attorneys and staff have been leveraging CoCounsel Legal to deliver more precise and responsive client service. The firm selected CoCounsel Legal because it offers versatile applications across all of Chamberlain Hrdlicka's practice groups, ensuring that every team can leverage the technology to deliver enhanced value to clients. Additionally, the technology in Thomson Reuters solutions, including CoCounsel Legal, is used by the U.S. federal courts demonstrating its reliability and security in sensitive legal environments. Developed by lawyers for lawyers, the solution is purpose-built to meet the specific demands of legal practice.

We are continuously looking for ways to improve our client service, and we made the decision to adopt CoCounsel Legal because we see tremendous potential in how advanced AI can elevate the way we serve our clients, explains Larry Campagna, managing shareholder at Chamberlain Hrdlicka. We use this solution to streamline research, enhance the quality and consistency of our work product, and to help us respond to clients with greater speed and confidence. Our commitment to exceptional client service guides every technology investment we make, and this platform helps us meet our clients' evolving needs with even greater precision. We are confident our partnership with Thomson Reuters will be a long-term success.

We have thoughtfully integrated CoCounsel Legal across our workflows, focusing on areas where it creates immediate value for our teams and our clients, said Erin Hulme, Chamberlain Hrdlicka's chief operating officer. Beyond the initial implementation, we're committed to continuously evolving our use of CoCounsel Legal alongside our firm's needs. We're actively exploring new ways to integrate the technology as Thomson Reuters continues to enhance the platform's capabilities and introduce new features. This is not a one-time implementation; it's an ongoing partnership that will grow and adapt as both the technology and our practices evolve.
