Legal 500 and Chambers USA Continue to Rank Chamberlain Hrdlicka Among America's Top Tax Attorneys

Chamberlain Hrdlicka again recognized nationally in The Legal 500 and Chambers & Partners

June 2015

HOUSTON, TX (June 2015) – The national law firm of Chamberlain, Hrdlicka, White, Williams & Aughtry again has earned top rankings in two leading legal ranking publications, The Legal 500 and Chambers USA.

For the eighth year in a row, Chambers & Partners ranked Chamberlain Hrdlicka as one of the top tax controversy law firms in the United States. Attorney David D. Aughtry of the firm's Atlanta office also was recognized as one of the top tax attorneys in the United States. Aughtry is one of seven attorneys from the firm's Houston, Philadelphia and Atlanta offices to be listed by Chambers & Partners in the 2015 edition of its annual Chambers USA guide to the world's best legal professionals and law firms.

The Legal 500 nudged Chamberlain Hrdlicka higher in its tax controversy ratings in 2015, placing it in the company of AM Law 100 firms such as Morgan Lewis, Mayer Brown, and McDermott Will & Emery.

"Once again, these rankings demonstrate that Chamberlain Hrdlicka delivers the legal skill and expertise our clients need with the personalized attention and service they deserve," said Managing Partner Wayne A. Risoli. "Skilled and effective legal counsel does not have to come with a mega-firm price tag."

With about 120 attorneys and 44 shareholders, Chamberlain Hrdlicka recently posted double digit increases in net income and profits per partner for 2014, evidence of significant growth in practice areas from litigation to intellectual property and energy.

Individual attorney rankings in Chambers USA 2015 include:
