Adrian Ochoa grew up in a border town where he experienced both the U.S. and Mexican cultures. As a native Spanish speaker, Adrian is passionate about ensuring that justice is accessible to Americans no matter their background or native language. Early in life, Adrian learned to value cultural differences and discovered his passion for the law. Adrian graduated from Cornell Law School with a J.D. and from NYU School of Law with a LL.M in tax law.

Adrian represents entities and individuals, focusing his practice on representing clients in audits and administrative appeals before the Internal Revenue Service and in litigation in the United States Tax Court, United States District Courts, and the United States Court of Federal Claims.

Prior to joining the firm, Adrian clerked for the Honorable Juan F. Vasquez of the United States Tax Court. Adrian drafted judicial opinions, orders and decisions, conducted legal research on issues presented to the Tax Court on a wide variety of tax matters.

Adrian, along with his friend and colleague Leo Unzeitig, had the privilege to be an adjunct professor of Tax Research at the University of Incarnate Word.

In his spare time, Adrian enjoys spending time with his wife, daughter, and son, as well as playing soccer, basketball, hiking, and bike riding.
