Brittney Little is a senior associate in Chamberlain Hrdlicka's Atlanta office. Brittney represents taxpayers in disputes with the IRS with a special focus on cross-border and international tax issues. She also advises taxpayers on international tax matters including U.S. inbound and outbound tax issues related to global transactions, U.S. withholding tax, and international tax compliance and reporting.

Prior to joining Chamberlain Hrdlicka, Brittney worked in the International Tax Services Group at Crowe LLP, where she assisted clients with international tax compliance and crossborder investments and reorganizations.

During law school Brittney interned with the Florida House of Representatives and the United States Attorney's Office.
