Hunter is an associate in the Atlanta office's trust and estates group, where he focuses on building estate planning structures that promote administrative efficiency and family harmony. Through implementation of various trusts, corporate and pass-through entities, leveraged gift and sale transactions, and life insurance planning, Hunter navigates an array of estate, gift, and income tax obstacles for a diverse clientele, whether domestic or international. Hunter's measured approach helps individuals and business owners safeguard their hard-earned wealth and realize their charitable goals.
