“We joined Lexwork with the goal of providing our clients with access to quality, reliable and cost-effective attorneys across the globe and we have been very pleased with the results. Through yearly meetings and regular conference calls, I have developed close working relationships with attorneys at other Lexwork firms and I am confident that my clients will be a priority and receive the service they expect. As an added benefit, we have seen our referrals from other Lexwork firms steadily increase over the years, paying for our membership dues many times over.”

SHERIN AND LODGEN

– C. Forbes Sargent III, Sherin and Lodgen LLP, Boston, Massachusetts

“We had the good fortune of working with a Lexwork member on a case in a foreign jurisdiction. After the successful conclusion of that case, our contact at the Lexwork firm recommended that our firm consider joining Lexwork. We were impressed by the quality of the Lexwork firm and considered it a compliment to be invited to join the other talented Lexwork firms. That was in 2009 and we have never regretted our decision.”

Frequently Asked Questions

What are the benefits of joining Lexwork?

There are many, including:

- The ability to meet the international requirements of clients.
- The expanded network of legal contacts and experience.
- To gain new business from other Lexwork International member firms.

What type of practice does a firm need to have?

Many of the Lexwork International firms are full-service law firms, however, the majority of the referrals are in the areas of general corporate law, cross-border transactions and related dispute resolution matters.

What is the cost to join?

Fees are reviewed each year and do not regularly increase. For 2025, annual dues are $6,000 per member, with up to $3,500 reimbursable for Lexwork meeting attendance.

How do you become a member?

Typically, new members are identified after one or more existing Lexwork member firms has had a positive working relationship with or has personal knowledge of the candidate firm. However, interested firms are encouraged to contact the governing board chair of their geographical area for any questions they may have about membership.

How many referrals will I receive?

Referrals vary year to year. We encourage firms interested in membership to inquire about referrals during their conversations with Lexwork International members while exploring a membership.

What is the culture of this group like?

Lexwork is a professional group that values collegiality and relationships. The connections formed during the in-person meetings and conference calls facilitate the relationships necessary for lawyers to have a trusted referral network available should their clients have questions or the need for legal advice in jurisdictions outside their own.

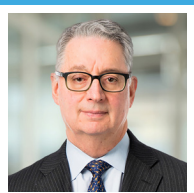

How often do you meet?

What is the structure?

All members meet in-person every autumn to discuss organization business, elect new members, foster relationships with existing members and share best practices. Additionally, Lexwork Europe & Asia and Lexwork Americas each hold a regional in-person meeting each spring.

In between in-person meetings, the members of Lexwork Americas maintain contact through monthly virtual meetings. A Coordinating Committee, consisting of five members of Lexwork Americas and five members of Lexwork Europe & Asia, meet quarterly via conference call to discuss progress on initiatives, facilitate the relationships between all member firms and to address new opportunities to provide outstanding legal service to clients around the world.
