Foster Swift Labor & Employment attorney, Frank T. Mamat, was recently re-elected as Chairman of the Education Foundation for the American Society of Employers (ASE), a position he has held since 2006. In addition, Frank has also been accepted as a member of the Private Directors Association.

The ASE is a non-profit employer association that focuses on the ever-changing workforce environment so that member organizations can cost-effectively get the relevant information, programs and counsel they need to become employers of choice and help meet their business objectives.

The Private Directors Association provides a national network where executives and professionals interested in board service can find and meet with those that are interested in securing exceptional board members.

Annually selected as one of the top 100 Labor Lawyers in the US by the Labor Relations Institute, Frank focuses his practice on complex labor issues, with a special focus on union matters, contract negotiations and unfair labor practice litigation among other areas. Frank is an alum of Syracuse University College of Law and is a certified Mediator and Arbitrator and Adjunct Professor of Law at Wayne State University.
