

Family law blog provides a plain English legal perspective

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

June 25, 2019

Southfield, Mich. –Divorce is often the first thing that comes to mind when family law is referenced. However it is one of a number of areas that encompass this law practice. To provide an informative perspective to those with similar legal needs, Foster Swift's family law practice is launching a new blog entitled, Your Family Law Advocate.

Family law is an area where irreversible decisions are easy to make and can result in dire consequences. The purpose of this blog is to guide readers through the maze of legal issues and topics facing friends and families, allowing them to focus on the moments that truly matter.

Foster Swift family law attorneys Andrea Badalucco, Frederick D. Dilley, Jackie A. Dupler and Sydney Steele are providing this legal resource blog dedicated to helping individuals by providing their expertise along with relevant information on:

- Divorce
- Grandparent's rights and custody actions involving grandparents
- Custody (Post-judgment) and (Deviate from Court Order)
- Financial (small businesses, experts—CPA, business valuation)
- Divorce process
- Legal updates

Family law and the value of skilled family law counsel are often underestimated as an absolute necessity. Visit yourfamilylawadvocateblog.com regularly for more posts and learn how Foster Swift attorneys can help you live your life and focus on family.

This news item has been updated with new information since it's original publication on June 25, 2019.

ATTORNEYS

Andrea Badalucco
Frederick D. Dilley

PRACTICE AREAS

Adoption Law
Divorce
Family Law
General & Commercial Litigation