

Real Estate Attorney Roragen Joins Lansing Firm

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Ingham County Legal News

July 10, 2023

LANSING, Mich. — Foster Swift Collins & Smith PC welcomes attorney, Kevin J. Roragen, to the firm's Lansing Office. Kevin represents clients on commercial and real estate litigation and transactional matters, primarily in the areas of commercial development and construction, sales, municipal land use regulation, oil and gas, tax, and other commercial and business matters.

Kevin represents a broad spectrum of business and commercial interests in litigation matters involving real estate development/construction, contracts, zoning and planning issues, partnership and business disputes, tax matters, and property ownership/title disputes, including oil, gas and mineral rights, and rights of way/easements.

Kevin has more than 25 years of experience representing real estate developers, municipalities, manufacturing companies and other organizations and individuals in various legal matters. In real estate, Kevin represents institutional, business, and individual clients in various complex matters including:

- Property acquisitions, sales and business acquisitions and dispositions.
- Negotiating, drafting, and reviewing various real estate documents, partnership agreements, operating agreements, contractual agreements, and other business agreements.
- Formation of business entities.

Kevin earned his BA in Economics from Michigan State University and graduated Magna cum laude from Western Michigan University Thomas M. Cooley Law School.

ATTORNEYS

Kevin J. Roragen

PRACTICE AREAS

Appellate Practice

Business & Commercial Litigation

Commercial Litigation

Municipal & Public Entity Law

Real Estate Law

Real Estate Litigation

Zoning & Land Use