Daniel M. Horowitz maintains a wide-ranging complex commercial litigation practice with particular emphasis on large-scale business disputes, antitrust, and constitutional actions. His numerous matters include representing a Fortune 500 company in antitrust actions brought by some of the nation's largest retailers and representing an insurer in high-stakes coverage disputes centered on harms flowing from social media addiction and the nationwide opioid crisis.

Daniel has also represented clients in significant constitutional challenges, including defending the Public Campaign Financing and Election Commission of the State of New York against a challenge to its authority, and the Governor of New York in a challenge to a statute related to salaries for legislators and executive-branch employees.

Daniel is a leader in the firm's pro bono efforts, and his contributions have helped to secure HSG's recognition from Law360 as the number one boutique in the nation for pro bono work, and Benchmark Litigation's Pro Bono Firm of the Year. His representations include incarcerated individuals seeking to vindicate their constitutional rights, and clients in divorce actions through Her Justice. He represented a Cuban asylum seeker who the United States deported to Cuba, yet Daniel successfully prevailed at the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit and the Board of Immigration Appeals to have the deportation order vacated.

Before joining Holwell Shuster & Goldberg, he served as a judicial law clerk to the Hon. Priscilla R. Owen of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit, and the Hon. Frederic Block of the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of New York. A film and television production major at New York University, before law school, Daniel worked in the independent film industry in New York.

He was named to the 2024 Benchmark Litigation's 40 & Under List (2024) and the Lawdragon 500 X – The Next Generation list (2024, 2025). In 2025, Dan received Profiles in Leadership Journal's 2025 Legal Leadership Award, which honors exceptional lawyers leading their firms and supporting their clients and communities.
