IPB partners Natanya Allan and Leslie Bradenham, who joined the firm in September, spoke to Law360 this week for its article, "Ivins Phillips Adds Wealth Planning Team In DC Office," (subscription may be required).

"Allan told Law360 on Wednesday that the move to Ivins Phillips was unexpected but that the opportunity was very compelling. "I think our clients are going to benefit from just the tippity-top tax advice and understanding, not just of estate and gift tax ... but also international components [and] controversy issues," she said."

"The broad tax expertise is huge, and Ivins is obviously so well known for being one of the very best as far as tax expertise goes," Bradenham said. "Especially now with all the tax changes coming along, I feel like our clients are going to absolutely benefit from that."
