Ivins, Phillips & Barker is pleased to announce that our Estate Planning Practice has been recognized by Chambers & Partners in its just-released 2024 High Net Worth Guide. Chambers cites clients and industry sources who say, "Ivins, Phillips & Barker is friendly, readily available, and offers a high level of competence."

Our partners Brenda Jackson-Cooper, Natanya Allan, Leslie Bradenham and Carter Hood are also recognized individually.

Chambers calls Brenda "highly skilled at developing tax and estate planning strategies for high net worth individuals and families." One source says, "Brenda Jackson-Cooper is a strong and capable trusts and estates attorney."

Chambers dubs Natanya "an expert on estate planning and charitable giving. [She] advises high net worth individuals and charities on tax and governance matters, including philanthropy planning." A source says, "Natanya is an outstanding attorney both technically and practically."

Chambers acknowledges that Leslie "is experienced in handling trusts and estates-related work for affluent individuals and families. She is especially focused in the areas of estate planning, charitable giving, trust administration and federal transfer taxation." One source says, "Leslie is a skilled tax attorney and applies common sense to any issues that we have faced."

Chambers highlights Carter's strengths in "complex personal planning, administration, privately held business and will and trust matters." Sources comment, "Carter is one of the smartest tax practitioners I
