We are pleased to announce that the ABA Section of Taxation has presented its 2025 Distinguished Service Award to Eric Solomon in recognition of his exceptional contributions to the tax profession and the tax system. This award is the highest honor bestowed by the Tax Section.

Over his four-decade career, Eric dedicated 15 years to public service, including serving as Treasury's Assistant Secretary for Tax Policy and heading the corporate tax division in the IRS Chief Counsel's office. In addition to his government service, Eric has taught corporate taxation at Georgetown University Law Center for 30 years. He has also held numerous leadership positions within the Tax Section, including Chair of the Section, and served as President of the American Tax Policy Institute, among many other contributions.
