Ivins, Phillips & Barker is pleased to share that our attorney Alex Maged was recently quoted in a CNN article addressing tax-saving strategies for families. The reporter reached out to Alex after reading his recent IPB Benefits Bullets titled, "Want to Offer a Dependent Care FSA to Employees? Some May Owe More Tax by Contributing."

In preparing for the CNN story, Alex and the reporter had an extensive discussion on a wide array of tax saving strategies, including:

- Health Savings Accounts (HSAs)
- Dependent Care FSAs
- Health Care FSAs
- 401(k) and other qualified retirement plans
- 529 plans for education savings

While the article ultimately highlighted Alex's comment on 529 plans, the broader conversation underscored the many opportunities available for individuals and families to maximize tax savings through thoughtful use of employee benefits and other tax provisions. Thank you to CNN for inviting Alex to share his tax and benefits expertise with the wider public.
