Ivins' attorney Benjamin L. Grosz was quoted among various experts discussing how business owners can employ their children and/or other younger family members and facilitate the establishment and funding of tax-advantaged Roth IRA accounts for the minors' long-term benefit. Mr. Grosz was quoted in an article entitled "Who is Using The Child IRA Right Now" by Christopher Carosa, part of a three-part series on the potential benefits and advantages of establishing retirement savings accounts for children (and even babies).
