Leslie Schneider was quoted in the Wall Street Journal article entitled "Disarray Follows IRS Prepayment Rule" by David Harrison, Joseph De Avila and Jennifer Levitz.

Leslie Schneider, a partner at the tax law firm of Ivins, Phillips & Barker, said "there's a significant question about whether the IRS is right." A good argument could be made that property owners who prepay a 2018 tax bill and don't expect a refund could deduct that amount from their federal taxes regardless whether the property has been assessed or a bill issued, he said.
