

Capital Assets and Infrastructure

For over a century, Miller Canfield has helped every type and level of governmental entity in achieving their capital asset and infrastructure projects, facilities, and equipment goals. From states to cities, villages, townships, counties, universities, school districts, community college districts, charter schools, and special purpose authorities, there is nothing our team hasn't seen.

We work in many roles. We frequently serve as bond counsel and alternatively as other legal counsel in a transaction, including underwriter's and disclosure counsel, in all types of tax-exempt and taxable financings for governmental facilities and equipment for critical public infrastructure.

Our state, local government, education and non-profit clients look to us as trusted advisors, providing sound advice drawn from our decades of deep experience. We deliver the legal opinions required to enable all types of financings for governmental facilities and equipment to succeed. Our philosophy is driven by innovation, creativity, and the goal of getting to "yes."

The Miller Canfield bond team is proud to have been part of numerous Bond Buyer Deals of the Year and regularly ranks among the busiest and largest providers nationally of legal services with respect to financings for governmental facilities and equipment for all levels of state and local government. Our performance is a matter of public record.

Whether your need is for water and sewer infrastructure, a new fire station or a new fire truck, local or major road improvements, drain improvements, a charter school, student housing, a new hospital or airport facility, "green" energy facilities, a brownfield project, a public-private partnership, a downtown redevelopment project, a library, broadband investments, or any other type of capital project you are planning, we can help you get it done on time, on budget, and on message.
