Thomas W. Linn

Chairman Emeritus

Thom Linn is currently Of Counsel and Chairman Emeritus to the firm following nearly eight years as the chief executive officer, and 20 years as a managing director.

In those positions, Thom used his substantial administrative experience in directing all aspects of the firm's professional and business operations.

Thom is deeply involved in civic and philanthropic activities in the Detroit region, serving on the boards of numerous business, community, and charitable organizations to advance the greater interests of the state and region. He has recently concentrated on encouraging pro bono legal services within the firm and the legal community at large, and working with the Michigan State Bar Foundation and Lakeshore Legal Aid (serving as Chair of the Board) on increasing resources available to Michigan legal service providers. Thom is a well-known and widely respected member of the firm and the Detroit regional community.

Legal Practice

Thom has been a commercial and public finance lawyer for more than 40 years. He has participated in the documentation and issuance of billions of dollars of securities and loans, represented issuers, lenders, borrowers and underwriters. His clients have included municipal issuers, commercial and industrial borrowers, financial institutions, nonprofit organizations and educational institutions. He has actively participated in the development and direction of significant legislation in Michigan, including legislation related to financing and taxation.
