U.S. employers constantly face a confusing web of immigration-related issues, including heightened enforcement of both federal and state immigration laws. The number of compliance investigations and audits has increased dramatically the past few years. High-tech, healthcare, and international companies in particular face increasing challenges in securing international talent and keeping them globally mobile. Employers who use H-1B, L-1 and other U.S. visas are facing more denials, scrutiny, and investigation. This webinar features a panel of national immigration experts from across the U.S. who will provide guidance and offer best practices on the most critical immigration issues facing employers today.
