

Cappuccino with Counsel: U.S. Export Controls Affecting Green Technology

May 20, 2015

7:45-9:00 a.m.

Bloomfield Hills, Michigan

Please join Miller Canfield lawyers Joe Gustavus and Jeffrey Richardson while they discuss the impact of U.S. export controls on your involvement in green technology. The continuing advancement of green technology and clean energy remains a substantive focus of the U.S. government policy. As these technologies continue to advance, so do the applicable U.S. export controls. Specifically, U.S. export controls focus on green technology sectors from wind power to solar power, water treatment to energy efficiency solutions -- and most important for those of us in Detroit -- on alternative fuel vehicles.
