

Danielle Mason Anderson Appointed to Southwest Michigan First Board

---

February 2, 2017

Miller Canfield attorney Danielle Mason Anderson has been appointed to the Southwest Michigan First Board of Directors.

Anderson is a principal at Miller Canfield, a global law firm headquartered in Michigan. Her practice focuses on commercial litigation and creditors' rights resolution with a concentration on loan enforcements, insolvency, bankruptcy and receiverships. She serves as the firm's Kalamazoo office resident director.

She joins a board comprised of thought leaders and executives of the region's largest and most influential businesses and higher education institutions. Southwest Michigan First is a privately funded economic development organization focused on business attraction and expansion, government and education, talent attraction and development and philanthropy. The region is a leader in key industries such as medical devices, pharmaceuticals, design-based manufacturing, packaging, agriculture and food processing.