Miller Canfield is pleased to announce that Joshua M. Carlisle has joined the firm as an associate in the firm's Corporate and Transactions Group, where he will focus on supporting clients in the areas of export controls and sanctions. With a strong background in customs compliance and trade regulations, Carlisle brings invaluable experience from his work in both the automotive and trade advisory industries.

Carlisle joins Miller Canfield from General Motors, where he served as a Customs Analyst and, on an interim basis, Customs Counsel. In these roles, he developed and implemented global compliance protocols across supply chains and provided strategic guidance on U.S. antidumping and countervailing duties. He also brings experience from his prior positions with Buckland Customs Brokers and Sandler & Travis Trade Advisory Services, where he developed processes to enhance compliance and transparency for international trade.

"We're thrilled to welcome Josh to our team," said Miller Canfield CEO Michael Palizzi. "His expertise in export controls and deep understanding of trade regulations will be a tremendous asset to our clients as they navigate the complexities of international business and compliance."

Carlisle earned his Juris Doctor, cum laude, from the University of Detroit Mercy School of Law, where he was recognized with book awards for his academic excellence. He is also a licensed Customs Broker and holds a Bachelor of Science in Kinesiology from Michigan State University.
