

Attorney Returns To Miller Canfield

February 4, 2002

Anne E. Blake-Dreher has returned to the Detroit office of the law firm of Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone, P.L.C. as an associate in the Labor and Employment Law Practice Group.

She first joined Miller Canfield in 1999, leaving in October 2001 to join Foley & Lardner, where she practiced in the litigation area. "We are delighted that Anne E. Blake-Dreher has returned. Although we're Michigan's largest and oldest law firm (celebrating our 150th anniversary this year), we consider everyone who works here to be part of the Miller Canfield family. It's great to have Anne back as a part of the Miller Canfield family," said Thomas W. Linn, Miller Canfield's CEO.

Blake-Dreher received her law degree, magna cum laude, from Wayne State University Law School where she is a member of the Order of the Coif, and served as executive article editor of The Wayne Law Review, and senior editor of the Michigan International Lawyer. Her B.A. in humanities and pre-law, is from Michigan State University.

She is a member of the American Bar Association, State Bar of Michigan, Detroit Metropolitan Bar Association, Michigan Association of School Boards, Michigan Council of School Attorneys, National School Board Association, National Council of School Attorneys, and the Detroit Chapter of Habitat for Humanity.

She currently resides in Walled Lake.
