

Miller Canfield's Annual Labor and Employment Law Seminar Focuses on Daily Issues for Employers, October 29 in Troy

October 2, 2003

Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone, P.L.C. announces the details of this year's Labor and Employment law seminar, hosted at the MSU Management Education Center in Troy. On Wednesday, October 29, from 8:00 a.m.-4:30 p.m., presentations and interactive workshops will provide important legal and practical updates on a wide range of topics for human resources professionals, managers, in-house counsel, CEOs, and business owners.

The seminar includes a special lunch session with health care consultant, Ken Holtyn, M.S., and a closing reception. Cost is $85 per person and includes a continental breakfast, lunch and seminar materials. Register online at www.millercanfield.com/newsroom/seminars.asp or call Virginia Herrick at 313/496-7548.

The seminar's morning sessions will review significant developments in labor and employment law and offer practical approaches to dealing with FLSA, ADA and FMLA issues, military duty and employment, and preventing and responding to discrimination, harassment and retaliation claims before they become lawsuits.

During the lunch session, Ken Holtyn, owner and founder of Holtyn and Associates, will discuss health care costs and strategies for containing them. The afternoon will allow for attendees to choose individual workshops including:

- The Department of Homeland Security: New challenges for employers
- The new era for corporate ethics and legal compliance: Sarbanes-Oxley whistleblower provisions
- Electronic document retention
- Class action lawsuits: How to anticipate, prevent and respond
- Public sector bargaining
- Strategies for meeting the upcoming HIPAA deadlines
- State administrative agencies reorganization: A worker's compensation/unemployment compensation update
