

Miller Canfield Sponsors Bio Intellectual Property Counsels' Spring Conference in California

March 24, 2008

The law firm of Miller Canfield announces that it is a sponsor of BIO Intellectual Property Counsels' Spring Conference and Committee Meeting, taking place March 31-April 2, 2008, in Santa Monica, California.

The Conference will include panels, seminars and workshops from distinguished members of the federal government, biotech industry, and legal community on intellectual property subjects, including recent federal court decisions, upcoming patent reform efforts and international IP issues.

Miller Canfield's Intellectual Property attorneys provide a full spectrum of legal services including procurement of domestic and international patents, registration of trademarks, and protection of copyrights, as well as assisting clients with transactional matters involving intellectual property rights; appraising and valuing intellectual property; and representing clients in disputes over ownership, validity and infringement of intellectual property.
