

Miller Canfield Presents "Today's Labour Issues in the Workplace," January 21, 2008 in Windsor

January 16, 2009

Employers are facing new challenges in this time of economic uncertainty. In light of this, the law firm of Miller Canfield will present "Today's Labour Issues in the Workplace – Staying Current and Practical Applications" on Wednesday, January 21, from 8:00-10:30 a.m. at Other Place Catering (1395 Walker Road) in Windsor.

Miller Canfield labour lawyers David M. McNevin, Doreen E. Snelling, and Loretta Stoyka will discuss how to protect your company from costly mistakes when downsizing your workforce; strategies for reducing fraudulent WSIB Claims; WSIB Policies; entitlement following layoff; re-employment issues; and give an update on proposed changes to experience rating.

There is no cost to attend. Reservations are required. RSVP with Shannon Kinney at 519.790.7467 or kinney@millercanfield.com
