January 11, 2005

Like many members of organizations in the U.S., the attorneys and staff of the Kalamazoo office of Miller Canfield wanted to help victims of the tsunami, so they raised $2,610.00 and on January 5, donated it to the American Red Cross and its International Response Fund, which will provide immediate and long-term support to those affected through food, supplies, technical assistance, and other care including water purification.

"A local radio station, WKZO, was collecting donations for the tsunami relief fund, so our staff and attorneys collected whatever they could in two days to assist in the recovery effort," said Sally Roschek, office manager of the firm's Kalamazoo office.

Harold Decker, Miller Canfield attorney and former CEO and interim president of the American National Red Cross said, "Miller Canfield staff and attorneys are grateful for the opportunity to use The American National Red Cross International Response Fund as a means of expressing our concern for and providing relief to those who have been devastated by this tragedy."

Others can help save lives and ease suffering by making a donation to the American Red Cross. The diverse organization serves humanity by providing relief to victims of disaster, both locally and globally. Call 1-800-HELP NOW.

Members of the Kalamazoo office will also take part in the American Heart Association Heart Walk in Kalamazoo on February 12.
