

Demystifying Customs and Immigration Enforcement of the Department of Homeland Security

Featuring Special Agent in Charge, Brian Moskowitz

April 13, 2007

The creation of the U.S. Department of Homeland Security (DHS) in 2002 was a result of one of the largest government reorganizations in 50 years. To help employers understand the Department's various roles and its significance to businesses, the law firm of Miller Canfield presents "Demystifying Customs and Immigration Enforcement Efforts of the Department of Homeland Security," featuring guest speaker Brian M. Moskowitz, Special Agent in Charge, U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement. The International Business Briefing will be held on Thursday, April 26, from 7:30-9:00 a.m. at the Automation Alley International Business Center (2675 Bellingham, Troy, Mich.).

Special Agent in Charge Moskowitz will discuss customs enforcement, immigration and worksite enforcement, money laundering and fraud, exporting and ITAR, and will be open for questions. Moskowitz covers Michigan and Ohio for the Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE), the largest investigative arm of the DHS, responsible for identifying and dismantling vulnerabilities regarding the nation's border, economic, transportation and infrastructure security. ICE Special Agents arguably possess the broadest investigative authority within the United States Government.
