August 18, 2010

Miller Canfield lawyers Richard A. Walawender (Detroit, Mich. office) and Aimee J. Jachym (Kalamazoo, Mich. office) will be featured speakers at the International Business Group (IBG) of West Michigan's Wednesday, September 8 meeting, Global Automotive Industry: Ups and Downs in Changing Times, from 11:30-1:00 p.m. at Bravo! in Kalamazoo (5402 Portage Road). The pair will discuss the global automotive industry, including next generation vehicles, the impact of NAFTA and worldwide recalls and opportunities for businesses in West Michigan.

At Miller Canfield, Walawender is the director of the Corporate, International Business and Automotive teams. His specialties include mergers and acquisitions, corporate, securities and commercial law, international transactions and joint ventures. Jachym assists with an array of business transactions, using her background in business and international affairs. She has extensive teaching and business experience in both Michigan and Korea. She was elected to the IBG's Board of Directors in June 2010.

IBG of West Michigan is a nonprofit organization aimed at helping businesses grow internationally. The September 8 meeting is open to the public. Cost is $15 for IBG members; $20 for nonmembers and includes lunch. RSVP by September 3rd to info@JASWM.org.
