

Miller Canfield Lawyer Larry Saylor Appointed Chair of Firm's Antitrust and Trade Regulation Section

February 7, 2012

Larry J. Saylor, a principal in the Detroit office of the law firm of Miller Canfield, has been appointed Chair of Miller Canfield's Antitrust and Trade Regulation Section by the firm's Litigation and Trial Group. Saylor served as chair of the Antitrust, Franchising and Trade Regulation Section of the State Bar of Michigan and has more than 30 years' experience handling complex business disputes in state and federal courts throughout the country, and in domestic and international arbitration.

Saylor's experience includes antitrust, trade secret, consumer protection, franchising, dealer law, and tax issues, including class actions, injunctions, and appeals. He also acts as an arbitrator and mediator. He received his J.D. from the University of Michigan Law School, his M.C.R.P. from Ohio State University and his A.B. from Miami University, Ohio.

Miller Canfield antitrust lawyers litigate significant antitrust cases throughout the United States and are experienced in dealing with the Federal Trade Commission, Department of Justice, and state attorneys general. They have handled many class actions and grand jury investigations and act in international antitrust investigations and corporate amnesty programs. They also counsel clients on mergers, joint ventures, product distribution, pricing, and other antitrust issues.
