Homelessness was a big concern in California in 2018 and continues to be in 2019 – both in rising numbers of people affected and in costs incurred by cities trying to address the issue. And sometimes, it seems the only way to comprehensively address homelessness is to spend large amounts of time and resources. But cities do not have to wrestle with this issue alone. In this session, experts deeply familiar with the topic will delve into: strategic methods and related fiscal issues for tackling homelessness at the local level, and finding willing partners who can help.
