Brian M. Jones is a partner in the Orlando office of Shutts & Bowen LLP, where he is a member of the Real Estate Practice Group.

A Martindale-Hubbell AV® rated attorney, Brian has an accounting background and has over 30 years of experience representing national and international developers in commercial and residential real estate development matters and commercial banks and investment funds in commercial loans and investments.

Brian has represented a wide variety of clients in large commercial and residential real estate developments, hotel condominium, hotel and timeshare resort projects in Florida, including national and regional home builders, public companies, community, regional and national banks and lenders and real estate investment trusts in projects of all sizes.

Brian has significant experience representing commercial developers and national home builders in addressing land acquisition, land use, development, regulatory, and environmental issues for residential communities, commercial condominiums, timeshare resorts and hotel condominiums.

With an accounting background, Brian brings financial experience to his work with institutional lenders. He counsels clients through the commercial loan process and helps them restructure troubled-debts.

He is a frequent lecturer of civic and business associations on issues affecting developers, small businesses and professionals. Outside of his practice, Brian is actively involved in the Orlando community and eleemosynary organizations for children.
