Jennifer Slone Tobin is a partner in the Orlando office of Shutts & Bowen, where she serves on the firm's Executive Committee and is a member of the Real Estate Practice Group. She is Florida Bar Board Certified in Real Estate Law.

Jennifer has a diverse real estate practice. She represents developers in the traditional areas of acquisition, development, permitting and financing of vacant, rehabilitation and operating properties. Her developer representation has included most of the traditional financing providers, including traditional bank loans, CMBS-style loans, insurance company loans, and full-recourse and non-recourse debt. She also assists developers with the negotiation of joint venture agreements with equity investors, including state retirement funds, venture capital companies and large investment firms. Her developer side practice also includes advice on construction contracts and other similar agreements with consultants for new development and rehabilitation projects.

She also represents lenders, primarily loans secured by real property, but also with traditional business lending. Having practiced in the lending arena from the beginning of her transactional practice, she has also been involved in loan workouts, including multiple complex loan portfolio workouts during the recent financial downturn. Jennifer and members of the firm's Governmental Law – Public Finance and Eminent Domain group also have teamed together on multiple occasions to represent lenders in connection with low income housing bonds, which have included many direct bond purchases by lenders.

Her diverse practice also involves representing equity providers in the placement of capital in multiple types of investments, including real estate, restaurants, hotel and timber assets, as well as with working capital loans to individuals with varied security. In these representations Jennifer collaborates with other firm lawyers, including Al Smith of the firm's securities group, and with Frank Rodriguez and Russell Hintze of the firm's tax group.

Jennifer is also very active in a variety of Orlando charitable and community organizations. She has served multiple years on the Municipal Planning Board of the City of Orlando, where she served as its chair from 2013–2015. She serves as the Boys & Girls Clubs of Central Florida's 2016 Board Chair.
