Orlando Sentinel's Top 100 Companies survey and recognition program is dedicated to identifying and recognizing the best places to work in Florida. Employers are measured on several qualities such as workplace flexibility, company leadership, career opportunities, community service, compensation and benefits.

The process is managed by Best Companies Group, an independent research firm. The assessment included a confidential Employee Engagement & Satisfaction Survey, which was sent by email to all employees and used to evaluate the employees' workplace experience and company culture, and an Employer Questionnaire, which was used to collect information about each company's benefits, policies, practices and other general information.
